News for Immediate Release
BURNCO Texas LLC’s Krugerville Plant Achieves TACA STAR Gold Designation for 2018-19

BURNCO Texas LLC’s Krugerville Concrete Plant achieved certification under TACA’s STAR program at the Gold level for 2018-19. This represents the highest level of certification possible under the STAR program, which evaluates facilities based on the key elements of community engagement, environmental stewardship and sustainability. Applicants provide information on different aspects of how a facility interacts and works with its local community – embodying the concepts of Sustainability, Trustworthiness, Accountability and Responsibility. They are evaluated through a detailed review and scoring process that allocates points for five specific elements, which include:

- Hosting community events
- Reaching out to the community
- Aesthetics
- Community involvement
- Environmental considerations

“This is a great achievement for the folks at our Krugerville plant who have worked very diligently to be engaged and involved in the community,” said Paul Rouse, General Manager for Burnco. “This is what we work to do at every one of our facilities, and we certainly understand the importance of our communities and how we can improve and strengthen our neighborhoods.”

The STAR program was developed through TACA’s Emerging Leaders Academy, and launched as a way to objectively quantify the achievements that member company facilities have made in community engagement. Importantly, it also allows the association to recognize these facilities for their accomplishment in this critical element of business. “Members work very hard to support the communities in which they operate,” said David Perkins, TACA President and CEO. “Three of TACA’s core values are Leadership, Community and Trust, and the STAR program is a valuable way to reflect on these important elements and recognize outstanding efforts.”

TACA is made up of the people who work hard every single day to provide the foundation that enables Texas to grow and prosper. TACA represents an industry that employs approximately 100,000 women and men with an annual economic impact of $8 billion. Our members produce the aggregates, concrete and cement that pave the roads which move the people and goods across the Lone Star State. And our products literally build the homes, schools, churches, apartments, offices, airports, hospitals and so much more – where Texans live, work and play.

# #

Sustainable • Trustworthy • Accountable • Responsible
Texas Aggregates and Concrete Association
Austin, Texas
WWW.TX-TACA.ORG
(512) 451-5100